

Case Study

Olivia initially signed up to Talent Match

Individually tailored mentor support for the most vulnerable young people aged 15-29

Before joining the Talent Match programme, Olivia was bored with life, depressed, had low self-esteem and wasn't motivated to do anything. She was referred to the job centre and like the sound of the support available. Since joining the programme, Olivia has met new people and now feels more motivated and confident. She is now focused on improving her health and getting fit and is looking for work.

Was referred to Talent Match through the job centre

Made a number of new friends

Is completing online English and Maths courses

Motivated to improve health and fitness

Looking to complete an apprenticeship to become a support worker

Olivia's career goal is to work with children, preferably in a supporting role such as a Support Worker. As a result of Talent Match, she benefitted hugely from the support and mentoring she received and now feels motivated to progress with her life.
